Wall Southerness

Remember all who love thee, All who are loved by thee; Pray for those who hate thee, If any such there be; Then for thyself in meekness, A blessing humbiy claim. And link with each petition The great Redeemer's name.

Or if 'tis e'er denied thee In solitude to pray, Should holy thoughts come o'er thee, When friends are round thy way, E'en then the silent breathing Of the spirit raised above, Will reach his throne of glory, Who is Mercy, Truth and Love.

Oh! not a joy or blessing; With this can we compare, The power that he lath given us To pour our souls in prayer. Whene'er thou pin'st in sudness, Before his footstool fall, And remember in thy gladness, His grace who gave thee all.

From the N. Y. Statesman, of 1821,

The following beautiful stanzas were handed to us by a friend a few day s since. He did not know the author; nor do we recollect ever to have read them before. The note of the transcriber remarked that these lines are the projection of no ordi nary mind, to which every one will as. sent. The picture was undoubtedly sug ceived and elegantly expressed.

A FRAGMENT:

FOUND IN A SKELETON CASE BEHOLD this ruin!- 'iwas a scull, Once of athereal spirit fuli! That narrow cell was life's retreat! This space was thought's mysterious sent! What beauteous pictures fill'd this sport What dreums of pleasure long forgot? Not love, nor joy, nor hope, nor fear, Has left one trace or record here!

Beneath this mouldering canopy Once shone the bright and busy eye-But start not at the dismal void? If social love that eye employ'd, If with no lawless fire it gleam'd, But through the dew of kindness beam'd That eye shall be forever bright, When stars and suns have lost their light

Here, in this silent cavern, bung That ready, swift, and tuneful tongue, If falsehood's honey it disdain'd, And where it could not praise, was chain'd If bold in virtue's cause it spoke, Yet gentle concord never broke, That tuneful tongue shall plead for thee, When death unveils elecuity?

Say, did these fingers delve the mine, Or with its envied rubies shine? To hew the rock or wear the gem, Can nothing now avail to them: But if the page of truth they sought, Or comfort to the unurnerbrought, These hands a richer meed shall claim Than all that waits on wealth or fame, Avails it whether, bare or shed, These feet the path of duty trod? If from the bowers of joy they fled, To soothe affliction's hamble bed. I' grandeur's guilty bribe they spurn'd, And home to virtue's lap return'd, These feet with angel's wings shall vie, And trend the palace of the sky?

Fourth Year of Waldie's BOOKS BY MAIL!

Prospectue of two new Volumes for 1836. THREE years have now elapsed since the proprietor of Waldie's Select Circulating Library laid before the public his original prospectus for for six months, and eight dollars per year, a valuable library, the great features of which were cheapners, and the famail. The most emple success has upon the reading community, it is believed, have been wholesome.

The fourth year will commence on the first Tuesday of January 1836, at which period it will be necessary to determine the additional amount of ing taken only from January of each The transfer from Mr Johnston to Christy, year. The entire success of the Libe given of its continuance. It was the first to supply books by mail at a mere per centage of their former cost; it has outlived more than thirty puer ile attempts at imitation; and has now an extensive list of patrons who are of the most solid and valuable class of citizens in every part of the Union, as well as in foreign countries. The object of Waldie's Library.

its use and its purpose, is enjoyment liberal and intellectual. To all who love a mental banquet, without being lie resort, this publication furnishes a most valuable desideratum, supplying reader from inclination as well as duty, are devoted to the procurement of works of an elevated standard of intel lect wich may be admitted into every family without hesitation by the most point for all its members, promoting social belles lettres reading and con versation, the veriety thus collected from the whole mass of published works, mostly new, embraces Biogra phy, Novels, Voyages and Travels. Sketches, Tales, and Select History, personal memoirs of extraordinary individuals, and curious adventure, &cc. don duodecimo volumes is thus annu works. The plan thus embraces the whole range of popular literature, and he work has now become so universally diffused in every part of the Uni on as to form no inconsiderable portion of literature of the country, and with which an acquaintance has be come really necessary for those who mix in society.

The Library as now conducted disseminates books to all parts of the country in from five to six weeksafter their issue in London. Five dollars per annum expended in this way will supply good reading for a whole cir cle or family; for a cent and a half try, we contemplate devoting a sufficient a day, postage included, a duodecimo portion of the Volume of the Farmer to book is sent every week, making in the course of the year more than three the business, either on a large or a small volumes of Rees's Cyclopedia.
